About Rutgers

Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, began as a struggling colonial college before the Revolution. Founded in 1766 by Dutch pioneers, Rutgers was originally called Queens College under a charter from King George III of England. The young college's existence was threatened by the Revolution, but growth followed that conflict, just as unprecedented expansion was experienced after the last World War.

Rutgers was given its present name in 1825, after generous gifts had been received from Colonel Henry Rutgers, a New York philanthropist. Forty years later it was designated the Land Grant College of New Jersey, the liberal arts course was enlarged, and courses leading to bachelor degrees in agriculture and engineering were added.

In 1902 a ceramics department was established, New Jersey College for Women with its own New Brunswick campus, was founded in 1918; the School of Education added in 1923; and in 1925 the Extension Division for non-degree education and the School of Journalism were established. The College of Pharmacy was added in 1927. University College, degree-granting evening division, was established in 1934, and Newark University was merged with Rutgers in 1946. In 1945, the State Legislature brought all divisions of Rutgers within the designation of the State University of New Jersey.

The Rutgers football team described in this brochure is composed only of students in the Colleges for Men in New Brunswick, which have an enrollment of 2,400. There are approximately 20,000 full and part-time students in all divisions of the State University.

The Rutgers Coaching Staff

Harvey J. Harman, Head Coach

ENTERING his twelfth season as head coach of Rutgers football, Harvey J. Harman has compiled one of the finest college records in the nation. Since he first came to the Banks of the Raritan in 1938, he has piloted twelve Scarlet teams to 68 triumphs in 103 games.

Past president of the American Football Coaches Association, Harman has been associated with the sport since he was 13, first as a player and later as coach and administrator. He played at New Castle (Pa.) High School and Peabody in Pittsburgh. Entering the University of Pittsburgh in 1918, he immediately won a starting tackle berth under Glenn S. (Pop) Warner. He missed the starting lineup only once at Pitt.

He earned additional letters in track and was president of his junior and senior classes. Harman received his A.B. degree from Pitt in 1922 and began his coaching career at Haverford that fall. Meanwhile, he continued his studies at the University of Pennsylvania until he earned a Master's Degree in government.

Harman remained at Haverford until 1930, when he became athletic director and coach of football and track at Sewanee, the University of the South. A year later, he went to Penn, where he remained as coach of football until he resigned in December, 1937. His appointment at Rutgers followed.

His first season at Rutgers won him a permanent place of honor in Scarlet football history when his gridders defeated Princeton in the famous 20-18 triumph which dedicated the new Rutgers Stadium. It marked the first Rutgers win over Princeton since 1869.

Following the outbreak of World War II, Harman laid aside his coaching togs and replaced them with Navy blue. Leaving Rutgers in the spring of 1942, he served as director of athletics at North Carolina Pre-Flight in Chapel Hill, was transferred to a similar post at Iowa Pre-Flight, and later saw combat duty in the Pacific aboard one of the nation's largest carriers. He returned to Rutgers in 1945.

Harman holds the academic rank of professor in the Division of Physical Education at the State University. An active and popular figure in civic and religious affairs, Harman has been deacon of the Second Reformed Church of New Brunswick and has served on many local committees. He is past president of the Navy V-5 Association and a member of Kiwanis, Phi Gamma Delta, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa, and the University Club of Philadelphia.

Assistant Coaches

Arthur A. Matsu, Backfield Coach

SENIOR member of the Rutgers coaching staff in tenure, Art Matsu has been in the department of athletics since 1931. He now holds the rank of associate professor in physical education. Matsu is in his 11th season as varsity backfield coach, an assignment he shares with Eddie Masavage. Art starred as a player at William and Mary in football, basketball, and track. After graduation he was freshman grid coach at his alma mater before coming to Rutgers in 1931. He was an assistant varsity coach of the Scarlet until 1936, coached the freshmen that season, and was back with the varsity in 1937. Matsu coached the freshmen again in 1938 then served two years as director of athletic publicity. He received his present varsity assignment in 1944.

Edward S. Masavage, Backfield Coach

WIRY Eddie Masavage has been associated with Harvey Harman almost continuously since 1931, first as a player, then as a coach, later in the Navy and again as a member of the Rutgers coaching staff. Masavage played two years of varsity football under Harman at Penn. Upon his graduation in 1933, he joined Harman's staff as varsity backfield assistant and coach of Penn's 150-pound varsity. He came to Rutgers with Harman in 1938 and coached the backfield until he entered the Naval Reserve in 1942. Eddie was stationed with Harman at North Carolina Pre-Flight, then went to sea aboard the aircraft carrier Essex for 18 months. Following his discharge with the rank of lieutenant commander, he returned to Rutgers to team with Art Matsu as backfield coach of the Scarlet.

Alexander Sabo, Line Coach

ONE of Fordham's famed "Seven Blocks of Granite," Al Sabo is in his 15th season of coaching at Rutgers this fall. Sabo is a "home town" athlete from New Brunswick. He came to Rutgers as freshman line coach after his graduation from Fordham in 1936. He worked with the varsity the following season, returned to the freshmen in 1938, and became Harman's end coach in 1940. Like Harman and Masavage, Al entered the Naval Reserve in 1942. He rose to the rank of lieutenant commander while serving in French Morocco and returned to Rutgers in time for the 1946 season. Before the war, big Al was a professional baseball catcher with the Washington Senators from 1936-38.

Otto H. Hill, End Coach

CENTER on Harvey Harman's 1941 eleven, Otto Hill is starting his eighth season as a grid coach. After a stint in the Air Force, he returned to Rutgers in 1946. He won Rutgers letters in football and lacrosse and played service football. He coached the junior varsity in 1947 and 1948 and was head coach of the Scarlet freshman teams for three seasons. He received his varsity assignment last year.

Frank R. Burns, Freshman Coach

ALL-EAST quarterback on Rutgers' great postwar teams, Frank Burns returned last fall as freshman coach after two seasons as head coach at Johns Hopkins. A product of Roselle Park, Burns played professional football and was assistant frosh coach at Rutgers following his graduation in 1949. He accepted the Baltimore assignment in 1951.

Rutgers Athletic Administration

Harry J. Rockafeller, Director of Athletics

R "Rocky" reached a high point in his years of service and devotion to Rutgers EGARDED as one of the best known figures associated with Scarlet athletics, in 1954 when he was appointed Director of Athletics, succeeding George E. Little, who left the post to give full time to administrative duties as Executive Secretary of the National Football Hall of Fame. Little had served Rutgers as Athletic Director for 22 years.

Rockafeller entered Rutgers as an undergraduate in 1912. He starred in football, basketball, baseball, and track during his four college years. He became associated with the College of Agriculture immediately after his graduation but left for service with the Army overseas during World War I. After the war, he went into industry for several years, then returned to Rutgers in 1924 as graduate manager of athletics. He was named head football coach in 1927 and in four years his teams won 19 and lost 16 games. In 1930, he resigned as coach in favor of administrative duties.

In 1932, he became head coach of 150-pound football. His lightweight teams were undefeated in 18 games and won Eastern Intercollegiate championships in 1933, 1934, and 1935. He returned again to administration in 1937 but assisted with the varsity ends when Harvey Harman came on the scene in 1938. "Rocky" again took over the varsity reins while Harman was on leave of absence during World War II. Rockafeller was elevated to the associate directorship in 1950 and succeeded Little as director on January 1, 1954.

Richard L. Voliva, 150-Pound Varsity Coach

ASTAR in football and track and a National Intercollegiate wrestling champion at Indiana University, Dick Voliva coached those sports at Montclair State Teachers College after competing in the 1936 Olympics. He was an Army major during World War II. Since he came to Rutgers in 1945, he has been varsity wrestling coach and has served as 150 pound grid coach for the past six years. His wrestling teams have compiled some of the best records in Rutgers' mat history.

Alexander G. Sidar, Jr., 150-Pound Assistant Coach

FORMER Rutgers lightweight football star and varsity wrestler, Alex Sidar has served as assistant coach in both these sports for the past several years. An assistant professor in physical education, Sidar also helps coach track.

Mike Stang, Trainer

Andrew Sivess, Assistant Trainer

John Powers, Custodian of Equipment

Thomas F. Larkin '55, Senior Manager

Scarlet Players

1954 Football Co-Captains

ANGELO IANNUCCI, senior. Strongest man in the Rutgers backfield, Angie Iannucci gained All-East mention as a fullback last year because of his tremendous versatility. The Scarlet's rushing leader, Iannucci averaged 5.04 yards a try, rolling up 292 yards with his bull-like charges inside and whirlaway romps to the outside. He is a top-threat pass-receiver and averages more than 35 yards with his "controlled" punts, which minimize runbacks. A 190-pound product of Youngstown, Ohio, he backs up the line on defense and throws sizzling blocks on offense, when he is not lugging the leather.

JOHN (BY) O'HEARN, senior. Another two-way strongman among the Rutgers veterans, "By" O'Hearn is playing his fourth season of varsity ball. A guard for three years, he will operate at center, as well, this fall. He won All-Metropolitan, All-State, and All County honors as a guard for Columbia High School. His home is in Maplewood. A six-foot, 200-pounder, O'Hearn is a quick-charging blocker on offense and covers plenty of territory as a defensive linebacker, where he and Iannucci team up. While in high school, he played center, guard, tackle, and quarterback.

Ends

EDWARD BURKOWSKI, sophomore. One of a host of yearlings moving into the varsity picture, Ed was an All-Conference standout at Plymouth High in Pennsylvania. He was the league's highest scoring wing and Plymouth's top athlete in 1952.

HENRY D'ANDREA, sophomore. A 190-pound product of Camden High School, Hank is a bright prospect. An engineering student, he played both baseball and football in high school.

DONALD FELBER, sophomore. Tops among the soph wings, Don saw dual action as a quarterback in his freshman year. He starred as an end at New Haven's Notre Dame High, where he won All-America, All-Catholic honors. A business major, he won a host of awards for his high school basketball and football play.

EDWARD FARRELL, junior. Husky Ed saw limited varsity action last fall but came along strongly in spring drills. A 185-pounder, he hails from Brewster, N. Y.

VICTOR LOMAKIN, junior. Sideline by academic problems last year, Vic is one of the heaviest of the wings at 210 pounds. He moves quickly and has a good pair of hands under passes.

FRANKLIN MAGIN, sophomore. A guard and tackle during his playing days at Pitman High, Frank was converted to end, where he ranks among the Scarlet's tallest.

ALFRED MITLEHNER, junior. A rangy 190-pounder, Al combines wrestling and football in his sports endeavors. He played both center and end at Mamaroneck High School in New York.

LAURENCE MOSES, sophomore. Another strapping 210-pounder, Larry won All-Albany honors as an end at Bethlehem High in Delmar, N. Y. He was a track star, as well.

PAUL STITIK, junior. Last year's highest scoring end, by virtue of three PATs, Paul showed great improvement this spring and will be a strong varsity threat. He packs 200 pounds and has speed to make it go. He starred at Union Hill High in Union City and calls North Bergen his home.

Tackles

MARVIN BLUMENSTOCK, senior. Stacked up to 225 pounds, "Blumey" is one of the Scarlet's biggest, as well as one of the fastest, on the line. A varsity regular for two years, he is a keen blocker and a smothering tackler. He is a weight man in track. He won numerous honors in both sports at New Hartford, N. Y. High School.

EDWARD EVANS, junior. Limited action last year but packs 215 pounds which could fill a big gap in the forward wall. He was a standout at Cleveland High in Caldwell.

WALLACE LINDQUIST, sophomore. A six-foot, five-inch, 225-pounder, Wally is the biggest of the tackles. Could develop into a strong threat. His dad is a former Rutgers tackle. He hails from Abington, Mass., where he played four years of high school ball.

JAMES MARCO, junior. Hampered by injuries last season, Jim combines the speed of an end with the toughness of a tackle. He played both at Harding High in Warren, Ohio, where he won State and County honors.

THOMAS MULLOWNEY, sophomore. A former All-City tackle from Trenton Catholic High, Tom adds a chunky 210 pounds to the line.

JOHN OHNEMUS, junior. A reserve last year, John packs size and weight but lacks experience. He is a product of Euclid High, near Cleveland.

SAMUEL WHEATON, sophomore. A former All-South Jersey tackle, Sam played at Bridgeton High before coming to Rutgers. He shows promise despite his size.

Guards

KENNETH BOSSOW, senior. A varsity regular for two years, Ken starred at New Brunswick High and Rutgers Prep. One of the team's few married men, he also plays lacrosse in the spring. Tough to block on the line.

MICHAEL FISHER, sophomore. Outstanding promise from this yearling who is as tough as they come and a great competitor. A product of Highland Park High, he competes in track and wrestling, too.

RICHARD HEMMER, senior. A regular last year, Dick performed some amazing defensive feats and is a quick, efficient blocker, as well. A Dover High product, he is a rangy 190-pounder.

ROBERT HOWARD, junior. Only sophomore to win his letter last year, Bob makes up for lack of size in speed and aggressiveness. A graduate of Newburgh (N. Y.) Academy, Bob is equally effective on offense and defense.

JOHN MOORE, sophomore. A former All-New York City tackle from Horace Mann School, Jack has tried about every position and may make it at guard.

RICHARD MURAR, sophomore. One of the most promising of the yearling linemen, Rich is short but broad and strong. He gained All-Western Pennsylvania honors at Tarentum, Pa.

JAMES O'BRIEN, senior. Surprise of last year's line, Jim battled his way to a starting job by the end of the season. A "foine broth of a lad," he hits hard.

FREDERICK SCHMID, sophomore. Solid and rangy, Fred will give the veterans a battle for a starting job. He was a standout at Somerville High School.

DONALD SIMONE, sophomore. Another strong bet, Don makes up in scrap what he lacks in weight. A product of Warren, Ohio, he can really bust up opponents' plays.

Centers

ANTHONY DESANTIS, junior. A quarterback at East Orange High and a freshman fullback at Rutgers, Tony makes his bid this year as a center—with promise.

JAMES FENNELL, senior. Brother of quarterback John and an Army veteran, Jim was hampered by injuries last season but may come through as a senior.

JOHN (BY) O'HEARN, senior. See "1954 Co-Captains" at head of this section.

ARTHUR ROBINSON, sophomore. A rangy and rugged 210-pounder, Art figures to win some varsity job this fall. He starred as a tackle at Ridgewood High.

Quarterbacks

WILLIAM GATYAS, sophomore. A former All-State standout from Perth Amboy, Bill makes his first varsity bid. Fast and solid, he can run with the speed and deception of a halfback and pass with the best of the quarters.

JOHN FENNELL, senior. Despite his slim poundage on a tall frame, John stands up well under fire. A slick passer and a dancer in the open field.

TOSHIMASA HOSODA, sophomore. A fullback in his playing days at Bridgeton High, little Tosh is a rugged operator and a good passer in the T-slot.

Halfbacks

JAMES BEATTIE, sophomore. A fast-moving 165-pounder, Jim played his high school ball in Clifton, now lives in Fair Lawn.

GREGORY HOLMES, junior. Making his first varsity bid, Greg was a standout all-around athlete at Shaker Heights High in Ohio.

STEVE JOHNSON, senior. One of the Scarlet's top ground-gainers for the past two campaigns, Steve remains an unknown quantity, since he was not out for spring drills. He is a top receiver, quick in tight spots, and has breakaway speed. He is accomplished on defense as well.

JOHN LAVERTY, sophomore. A five-foot, six-inch bundle of dynamite, Jack is a top prospect despite his size. Sparkled at Dover High and Valley Forge Military.

RONALD MASTROLIA, senior. Only three-sports letterman in college, Little Ron plays football like he weighed 250, instead of 150. He is sure-footed and has explosive speed. Plays halfback and quarterback with equal aplomb. His other sports are basketball and baseball. Nickname: "Ronnie Rutgers."

ROBERT REDMAN, senior. A hair-triggered breakaway runner, Bobby has been slow developing but has shown bursts of greatness, such as his 60-yard romp against Penn State last year. Extra weight may help him go this fall.

Fullbacks

ANGELO IANNUCCI, senior. See "1954 Co-Captains" at the head of this section.

ROBERT KELLEY, junior. Equally at ease at right halfback or fullback, he may win the role at half and spell Iannucci occasionally. A speedy and fiery 180-pounder, Bob is always a threat. A Peekskill Military product, "Kell" is a brilliant lacrosse player, as well.

PAUL MOLTER, sophomore. A transfer student just become eligible under the rule, Paul packs 190 pounds. He played for East Rutherford High.

Big Ed of Rose Hill

Edward Danowski starred at halfback for Fordham under the Iron Major, Frank Cavanaugh, in the early Thirties and was captain of Jim Crowley's first Ram team in 1933. An All-American, he played pro ball with the Giants from 1934 through 1939, completing 307 of 345 passes. Retiring as an active player, he entered service and rose to the rank of Lt. Commander by the time he left the Navy in 1945. He returned to Rose Hill in 1946 and has produced some fine Ram teams. Renewed vigor at Fordham promises bright results this fall.

Lahar Fires Up Raiders

Despite last year's temporary setback, youthful Hal Lahar is in the process of boosting Colgate along the comeback trail and this fall's team should show why. A former star lineman with Oklahoma and the Chicago Bears, Lahar began coaching at Arkansas in 1949 and spent two seasons at West Virginia before taking over the Red Raiders in 1951.

RUTGERS—FOOTBALL'S PIONEER

Rutgers pioneered American intercollegiate football in an historic game played with Princeton, Nov. 6, 1869, on College Field, where the present-day Rutgers Gymnasium stands in New Brunswick. Football in its embryonic state bore striking, if rustic, resemblance to the modern game. Playing with 25 men on a side, the original Scarlet "eleven" beat Princeton, six goals to four. Rutgers students issued the challenge for the first game in hopes of avenging a 40-2 baseball defeat by Princeton in 1866. Employed in the first game were the rudiments of such later mayhem as the flying wedge, sleepers, and the first incident of a player kicking the ball toward his own goal.

"Virginia's Coach of the Year"

Youthful Jack Freeman, who is William and Mary's athletic director as well as head coach, gained acclaim last year with his brilliant efforts with a 24-man squad. One-time quarterback of the Indian's first Southern Conference champions (1942), he will lead a bigger, stronger array this fall.

THE LITTLE BRASS CANNON

Returning to competition this fall is the Little Brass Cannon, symbol of Middle Three supremacy, which was temporarily retired for two years when Lehigh and Rutgers did not meet in football. Established in 1940 in keeping with a Rutgers "cannon tradition" dating back to the Revolutionary War, the Little Brass Cannon was first won by Lafayette, which held it until 1945. Rutgers took charge that year and four more, before Lehigh scored its first capture in 1950. The Engineers repeated in 1951 but will put it back on the block this year. The Rutgers tradition dates back to the famous "Cannon Wars" waged between Rutgers and Princeton students.

A former Big Ten basketball and football standout from Northwestern, Kawal coached some great teams at Drake before coming to Temple. Prior to the Drake stint, he chored at Michigan State and Boston University. He develops an explosive brand of football.

RUTGERS' HOMER HAZEL

Greatest football player in Rutgers' history as Homer Howard Hazel, who stormed the gridirons of the East during the mid-Twenties. Hazel was named All-America end in 1923 and All-America fullback in 1924. In choosing Hazel, the late Walter Camp said: "Homer Hazel would be All-America at any position." Now residing in Marshall, Mich., where he is the personnel director for a large manufacturing corporation, Hazel has been an annual visitor at Rutgers since the Hall of Fame Game tradition was established in 1950. Hazel was elevated to the highest honors of the National Football Hall of Fame at its first election, held in 1951.

In his fifth season as Penn State's head coach, Rip Engle should come up with one of the East's strongest teams. A Dick Harlow product of Western Maryland, Engle produced fine teams at Brown before coming to State College. After ten years in high school coaching, Rip joined the Brown staff in 1942, became head coach in 1944, and took his explosive winged-T to Penn State in 1950.

THE SCARLET'S HOME GROUNDS

Rutgers Stadium is the heart of a million-dollar athletic plant situated on the University Heights campus. The Stadium area embraces 270 acres of gently rolling hills. Facilities include a nine-hole golf course, several baseball diamonds, six playing fields, and two practice gridirons.

The Stadium seats 23,000. The field is of turtle-back construction and is surrounded by a track modeled after the Los Angeles Olympic oval. One of the nation's best tracks, it has eight lanes on the curves and backstretch, with a 12-lane, 220-yard straightaway.

Stands are of reinforced concrete with wooden seats. A modern field house runs the length of the East stands and contains dressing rooms and offices. A well-equipped press box crowns the West stands, providing for more than 100 writers with telegraph and telephone service. Both ends of the press box have glass enclosed broadcasting booths, topped by photographers' platforms.

Maestro Lou Little

Lou Little, one of football's master strategists, is in his 25th season at Columbia and ranks, in point of service, as dean of the Ivy League coaches. He was graduated from Penn in 1920 after starring as a tackle in 1916 and 1919—his playing being interrupted by Army service. He played professional football until he became coach at Georgetown in 1924. He remained as coach and athletic director until he moved to Columbia in 1930. His career with the Lions has been highlighted by great triumphs and stunning upsets. One of his earliest was the Rose Bowl victory over Stanford in 1934 and, more recently, the snapping of Army's great winning streak in 1947.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME

Reproduced above is the original architect's sketch of the proposed National Football Hall of Fame. Tentative site for the grid shrine is on the heights to the north of the Rutgers Stadium. Rutgers was chosen as the location for the Hall of Fame in recognition of America's first intercollegiate game, played on the Rutgers campus between Rutgers and Princeton on November 6, 1869. The Scarlet will observe the 85th anniversary of that clash when it meets Lafayette on November 6, 1954, in the fifth annual Hall of Fame Game here.
